

JARROD TAYLOR

Financial Advisor

Jarrood Jonah Taylor is a Financial Adviser with attooh!, working with Discovery in South Africa. He believes good financial advice begins with listening: understanding a person's circumstances, responsibilities and hopes before exploring the choices available to them. His aim is to make financial conversations clear and personal, helping clients feel better informed as they plan for the future.

Jarrood's approach to serving people has been shaped by a varied life and career. Before entering financial services, he spent around 13 years working as a school chaplain. He studied theology and supported pupils, families and colleagues through both everyday challenges and significant moments in their lives. That experience taught him to listen carefully, ask thoughtful questions and meet people with compassion and respect. It also strengthened his belief that trust is built through consistency, honesty and genuine care.

Rugby has been another defining part of Jarrood's story. He attended St Benedict's College, where he played in the First XV and became the school's first Craven Week player. His rugby journey took him through teams and communities in South Africa and abroad, including Brakpan, Witbank, East London, Johannesburg, Chelmsford, Cambridge and Bobigny in France. Rugby taught him discipline, resilience and the value of putting the team first - lessons he carries into his work with clients.

Today, Jarrood brings that same commitment to his role as an adviser. He works with clients to understand what matters to them, discuss their financial priorities and consider practical ways forward. He values straightforward explanations and believes people should have the space and information they need to make decisions that suit their own circumstances.

Jarrood is also a husband and father of two daughters. Family life has deepened his appreciation of the hopes and responsibilities that shape financial decisions, and of the importance of planning with the people you love in mind. His Christian faith informs his belief in stewardship, service and treating every person with dignity. Whether a client is beginning to plan, reviewing existing arrangements or thinking about the next stage of life, Jarrood seeks to offer a thoughtful conversation and a relationship built on trust. His goal is to help people approach their financial future with greater clarity and confidence.
